Please share a summary highlighting your biggest, most memorable deals that you were involved in/completed in 2022.

There were a number of memorable deals in 2022, but probably the most memorable was AMLI at Interlocken. It was a large deal that we were able to get done during a questionable time in the capital markets. We were also able to work with repeat clients on both sides of the transaction and get the buyer their first deal in the market as their new company.

Describe the overall performance/state of your submarket for 2022.

In general, Denver has continued to perform well through the challenging second half of the year. Our market continues to attract people wanting to move here from other markets, which has been a big success for us in general.

What are your predictions for your submarket for 2023?

Denver should continue to perform well especially as we are compared to other markets. Our continual population growth and pro-business environment has positioned our market well for future growth.

What is going to be the biggest commercial real estate story for the Denver area in 2023?

I think the decline in the MF development pipeline will be a big story as we head into the end of the year.

What is a goal you have yet to achieve?

Shoot under par

Who is the one person you're most interested in meeting?
